All of the fund's expenses are charged to capital. This has had the effect of increasing the distributions paid on an annualised basis by approximately 0.90 percentage points on the B share class and reducing the capital performance by an equivalent amount.

Fund manager's commentary

US inflation rose to 3.5% in March, prompting the Federal Reserve to comment on the recent lack of progress towards its 2% target. Sticky inflation and unemployment close to historic lows reduced investors' expectations of early Fed interest rate cuts. Global bonds fell 1.66% in sterling while UK government bonds and sterling corporate bonds fell 3.20% and 1.84% respectively. Within the EF Brompton Global Income Fund, the weakest bond investments were Henderson Fixed Interest Monthly Income and Jupiter Dynamic Bond, down 2.42% and 2.37% respectively. Schroder Strategic Credit, however, fell only 0.08%. The US technology sector fell 3.63% in sterling as growth stocks were hurt by dwindling hopes of early rate cuts. Chinese stocks rose 7.55% in sterling, however, as first-quarter economic growth topped expectations, fuelling gains by equities in Asia excluding Japan and emerging markets, up 2.15% and 1.36% respectively. The portfolio benefitted from its relatively-high holdings in Asian emerging markets although Prusik Asian Equity Income and JP Morgan Emerging Markets Income both underperformed, rising 0.22% and 0.66% respectively. The UK stockmarket, which has a heavy resources weighting, gained 2.38% as BHP made a bid approach to Anglo American and the copper price rose 13.66% in sterling. Within the portfolio, Aberforth Split Level Income and Man GLG Income rose 6.04% and 4.64% respectively. Gold rose 4.30% in sterling due to inflation fears and central bank buying. The EF Brompton Global Income Fund fell 0.59%† in April while the sector fell 0.68%. At 30 April, the historic yield was 3.50%††.

Investment policy

The Fund will typically invest a minimum of 80% of its net asset value in collective investment schemes, exchange traded funds and unregulated collective investment schemes.

The Fund may also invest in investment trusts (and similar instruments), other transferable securities, money-market instruments, fixed income instruments, deposits and foreign exchange contracts.

It is expected that exposure to equity markets will typically range from a minimum of 20% to a maximum of 60% of the total Fund, with the aim of achieving the Fund's objective. However, investments will not be confined by industrial, economic or geographical sector.

The Fund may also hold, on a temporary basis, all or part of its assets in cash or other ancillary liquid assets.

The Fund may utilise derivatives for the purposes of efficient portfolio management (typically hedging, including investing in hedged share classes, which attempts to mitigate against falls in the value of the Fund's assets and the effects of changes in currency exchange rates against the Fund's base currency, which is pounds sterling).

The Fund's benchmark is IA Mixed Investment 20-60% Shares. This represents a comparator benchmark because the Fund's performance can be compared to funds which also sit within this industry sector.
