Fund manager's commentary

Global equity markets fell sharply in early October as the end of US quantitative easing coincided with weak global inflation numbers and poor eurozone economic data. The surprise announcement of a major increase in monetary stimulus from the Bank of Japan reassured investors, however, that central bank policy overall remained supportive for risky assets. As a result, global equities recovered sharply towards the end of October and posted a 2.07% gain in sterling for the month. US equities outperformed and rose 3.81% in sterling. The Japanese equity market rose 4.40% in local currency terms on the last day of October and the yen fell. The WAY Global Red Active Portfolio's investment in the dollar-hedged GLG Japan CoreAlpha fund benefited from local market gains and the 1.33% appreciation of the dollar against sterling but this will only be reflected in November's performance. Dollar strength, however, proved a headwind for the Red Active Portfolio's commodity investments. The 2.01% fall in the gold price triggered a 10.17% fall in Blackrock Gold & General whilst Investec Enhanced Natural Resources fell 2.36% in response to weaker commodity prices, particularly iron ore and oil. Increased supply left the oil price down 9.69% in sterling. Recovery in post-civil war Libyan production and increasing US shale oil volumes have come at a time when global economic growth is slowing. The drop in energy costs should, however, prove a powerful global economic stimulus. The WAY Global Red Active Portfolio fell 1.86%† in October while the sector eased by 0.15%.
